

Cowseagan Cottage - Completed in 2006.

Contegiacomo designed this modern bent bar shaped residence in response to the diurnal movements of the sun, Cowseagan Bay microclimates, client program and traditional Japanese house design.

The structure is oriented east west with a cantilevered roof that gestures to the high cliff on its' south side and opens to the serene water to the north. It's bent shape scoops up the morning and evening sun when it is needed most. Circulation along its east west access allows the house to unfold like a book enabling unexpected surprises along the way.
